

There are many ways to support victims of the recent explosion and fire in San Bruno, but here are two with a decidedly fashionable-twist:

1. Marmalade: This Cow Hollow boutique is collecting gently used shoes, clothing and bags to benefit San Bruno fire victims. In exchange for your donations, the shop will gift you with 10 percent off your purchases.
2. Johnny Bueno: The Union Square salon is holding a Cut for Charity benefit next week to raise funds for the Silicon Valley Community Foundation's San Bruno Fire Fund. On Sept. 22, a hundred percent of the proceeds from all hair cuts ($75) with stylists Guf Gufler and Jeremy Jenks will be donated to the fund.

Looking for more ways to donate? You can always make an easy, online monetary donation to the San Francisco Foundation's San Bruno Relief Fund.

Photo (left to right): Jeremy Jenks, Johnny Bueno and Guf Gufler

Share and Enjoy:

If you enjoyed this post, make sure you subscribe to my RSS feed!

Filed Under: Indie Fashion, San Francisco Fashion News Tagged With: fashion for a good cause, help san bruno, johnny bueno, marmalade boutique, san bruno fire victims, san francisco fashion benefit